

Palliative Case Discussion with Professor Carl Becker: Professional Issues relating to Grief & Bereavement Care

2 November 2018@Singapore Cancer Society

We are honored to have Professor Carl Becker from Japan to share with us to share with us the importance of identifying and addressing burnout in end-of-life care for health and social professionals, as well as the 5 aspects of Japanese spiritual practices that can help to heal the grief of the bereaved families.

72 participants from different social work sectors benefited from Professor Carl's sharing as they learnt practical skills for reducing burnout and the importance of self-care.

For this Palnet event, participants from different social work sectors benefited from Professor Carl's sharing on the two topics. He emphasized the need for self care and how it will impact on the patients and clients whom we worked with.

Professor Carl Becker engaging the participants during the session!

A huge thank you to Professor Carl Becker for his time and sharing!

In view of patent and copyright issues, we apologized that we are unable to share the slide presentation by Professor Carl Becker. Thank you for your understanding!

